

The Digital Citizenship Summit Is October 28, 2016

Posted on 10/12/2016

The DIGITAL CITIZENSHIP SUMMIT brings together people, organizations, and businesses throughout the world to promote the safe, savvy, and ethical use of social media & tech. They believe that by creating a multi-stakeholder participatory approach the community can find better solutions, push forward best practices, and help move the needle towards a better web.

The Digital Citizenship Summit is an all-day event of speakers and panels featuring a diverse range of educators, students, parenting experts, organizations, industry, thought leaders, and more! We need to bring together ALL stakeholders to promote the SAFE, SAVVY, and ETHICAL use of social media & tech.

The summit this year will address one question: How can we be the digital change?

Participants can join the conversation for free in multiple ways:

- in person at the 2016 Digital Citizenship Summit @Twitter HQ
- livestream the event
- on social media by following @digcitsummit and #digcitsummit

Source: Digital Citizenship Summit Web site